"Oh, it's a curse, a curse, this wizardry!" they said..wizard's fiery visions, with her. Over and over he saw the wizard fall, saw the earth close. He."I thought that that would. . . suit you".came to him he could cure. He laid his hands on them, on the stiff-haired, hot flanks and neck,"You said I had it," the girl said into the reeking gloom of the one-roomed hut..act of doing things well..out inquiries, in the ways we have of doing so, but nothing and nobody replied. So we set off.He pondered. All the time he was with Gelluk, he had tried to learn from him, tried to understand what the wizard was telling him. Yet he was certain, now, that Gelluk's ideas, the teaching he so eagerly imparted, had nothing to do with his power or with any true power. Mining and refining were indeed great crafts with their own mysteries and masteries, but Gelluk seemed to know nothing of those arts. His talk of the Allking and the Red Mother was mere words. And not the right words. But how did Otter know that?.four mages stood on the path..students to learn with her the ways through the forest and the patterns of the leaves; for she was.place, a kind of bower deep in the willows, where they could hear the stream running over the.underfoot ended, gave way to porous rock. I passed through a curtain of light and found myself."Listen. . ."She lived with Medra in his small house not far from the Net House, though she spent many days with her sister Veil. Ember and Veil had been little children on a farm near Thwil when the raiders came from Wathort. Their mother hid them in a root cellar of the farm and then used her spells to try to defend her husband and brothers, who would not hide but fought the raiders. They were butchered with their cattle. The house and barns were burnt. The little girls stayed in the root cellar that night and the nights after. Neighbors who came at last to bury the rotting bodies found the two children, silent, starving, armed with a mattock and a broken ploughshare, ready to defend the heaps of stones and earth they had piled over their dead..had the gift for it, taught.
